

2. Joe G.

Susan Conway also acknowledged knowing Peter Quinn well and being at his party before he went into the service.

Joe G. called Unsolved Mysteries in Jan. '91, providing information that Susan Conway was a high priestess in the cult who performed black masses at Untermyer. He also ID'd Robert Grady as being involved in the cult and "a good friend of DB's."

Here's that background, some of which is hearsay to Joe:

Joe says that shortly after Berkowitz's arrest, Sammy Forcelli (254 New Main St. in 74-76) and Ray Harrington were in the Westchester county jail, and were shipped to a Buffalo area prison because Westchester was overcrowded. While in the Buffalo jail, Ray Harrington told Sammy Forcelli details about the SOS cult, including the info about Susan Conway. After his release, Sammy told Joe: "You knew some people in the Son of Sam cult," but Sammy only named Susan Conway.

A couple of years later, Joe was on a bus talking to Ray Harrington's brother. During the conversation, the brother said that Robert Grady was in the SOS cult and had once been a lover of Ray Harrington. Grady, whom Joe knew for years, is gay.

On a related note, Joe says that Ray Harrington, apparently bisexual, went out with Sammy Forcelli's sister, Angie, who is/was a friend of Susan Conway. Ray Harrington was also at one point involved in an alleged suicide pact, which may have been a murder. Harrington and a young guy named Stefanick or DeStefanick went to a local cemetery, where Stefanik (Note: brother of Irene Stefanik/Gorton?) allegedly shot himself dead and then Harrington chickened out from doing himself in. Joe says Yonkers detective Tom Chamberlain called it an "alleged" suicide.

Speaking of Chamberlain, Joe says he provided all this information on Conway, Grady, etc. to Chamberlain after MT's interview with DB aired in late '93. He says Chamberlain told him "there are a lot of theories going around," and did nothing. This is not surprising, as Chamberlain was promoted to detective after DB's arrest. He and his partner, Pete Intervallo, who was also promoted to detective after DB's arrest, were the sector officers involved in the Glassman letters matter, and so forth.

Robert P. Grady, named by Ray Harrington's brother as a member of the SOS cult, is now about 52 ('44 DOB.) He is/was nicknamed "Taco," and was co-owner of The Unicorn bar on Lawrence St. in south Yonkers, a bar Conway admits she frequented and in which she'd meet Claire the Witch, who was also known by DB and by alleged cult member Charlie Pettigano, who was from the Bronx. (Info on Pettigano came via NYPD detective Pat O'Shea, 1994). In the SOS era, Grady lived in that particular South Yonkers area, at 111 Bruce Ave., in the same building as Susan Conway, in fact.
